JAPS INFLICT CRUSHING DEFEAT

Death of Admiral Withoft. Mikado
Wants Port Arthur taken at Once. Attack on Port Arthur

DEATH OF ADMIRAL WITHOFT.

St. Petersburg, August 13th.—Rear Admiral Withoft who was in command of the naval forces at Port Arthur, was killed during the engagement on Wednesday. The Emperor has received a telegram from Tang Chou signed by Capt. Matusovitch, the Rear Admiral's chief of staff reporting that Withoft met his death aboard the flagship Czarevitch. Both his legs were blown off. Captain Wamoff, of the Czarevitch killed. Both his legs were blown off. Several officers beside the Rear Admiral were also killed. The Battleship sustained severe damage. Her rudder was broken beyond hope of repair.

BRITISH STEAMER SEARCHED.

Gibraltar, August 13th.—The British steamer Ronda from Hull, for Naples, passed here to-day and signalled that she had been boarded by a Russian cruiser yesterday. The purse and other documents were examined and her hold was searched.

WRECK OF THE CZAREVITCH.

London, August 13th.—A despatch from St. Petersburg to a news agency says that the machinery of the battleship Czarevitch was so much knocked about during the fight that most of it is worthless. She lost 210 officers and men killed, and had 60 wounded. Rear Admiral Withoft being on the bridge of the Czarevitch when a shell exploded there, blowing him to pieces.

DAMAGES TO RIVAL FLEETS.

Tokyo, August 13th.—Admiral Togo reports that five Russian battleships appear to have been badly damaged in the engagement of August 10. The Poljda lost two masts and one of her heavy guns was disabled. The flagship Revitzan which was hit several times at a distance of 3500 yards seems to have sustained the greatest damage. The damage inflicted on the Russian cruisers was comparatively slight. The Bayan has not appeared since the engagement.

The damage sustained by the Japanese vessels has been temporarily repaired.

RUSSIAN FLEET SMASHED.

Tokyo, August 15.—Vice-Admiral Kamimura encountered the Russian Vladivostock squadron at dawn Sunday, north of Tsu island in the strait of Korea. He attacked the enemy at once. The battle lasted five hours and resulted in a complete Japanese victory. The Russian cruiser Rurik was sunk and the cruisers Rossia and Gromoboi fled to the northward after having sustained much damage. Vice-Admiral Kamimura cables the navy department that the injuries inflicted on his vessels were slight. The fate of the crew of the Rurik is not known. It is presumed many were killed or wounded.

Tokyo is joyous over the news as it gives Japan command of the sea and relieves commerce from predatory attacks. The Japanese guns dominate the dock yards at Port Arthur and in view of this it would seem impossible to make seaworthy the Russian battleships which have returned to Port Arthur.

REAR ADMIRAL DEAD.

Chefoo, August 15.—Capt. Matsuyoshi, late Rear Admiral, chief of staff, who was wounded during the Japanese attack on the battleship Czarevitch, is dead. Only one Russian torpedo boat remains at Kiaochow with the Czarevitch. The Japanese demanded the departure of the Czarevitch, but the government replied that the vessel would remain but would be dismantled.

JAPANESE LOSSES.

Tokyo, August 15.—The following casualties were sustained by the Japanese in an action on August 10th: On board battleship Mikasa, Admiral Togo's flagship, four officers killed, 29 men severely wounded, four officers and 29 men slightly injured; on the armored cruiser Yakumo, one officer and 21 men killed; ten men wounded on armored cruiser Kasuga; torpedo boat destroyer Asagiri, two men killed; on board torpedo boats, 38 men killed and eight wounded.

PORT ARTHUR MUST BE TAKEN AT ONCE.

St. Petersburg, August 15.—The Bourge Gazette has received the following from Liao Yang: Twelve Japanese regiments left in the direction of Port Arthur. It is also stated on trustworthy authority that the Mikado has ordered Port Arthur to be taken at any cost, even if it necessitates suspension of operations in Manchuria, and it is quite possible the main Japanese forces will proceed to Port Arthur within a few days. Rain stopped all operations.

JAPS MASSING TROOPS.

St. Petersburg, August 15.—A despatch from Mukden states that the Japanese Port Arthur army has been largely reinforced and has taken up position in two large bodies, one on the heights between Lung wung and Liao Yang and the other on the heights near Wolf mountain. Guns have also been placed on the heights east of Wolf mountain.

PORT ARTHUR GARRISON WILL FIGHT TO THE DEATH.

Liao Yang, August 15.—Reports are coming in of several land attacks on Port Arthur during the last few days. On August 10th the Japanese had before Port Arthur 100,000 men and 450 guns, of which fifty are howitzers. Whether Port Arthur stands or falls it will cost Japan enormous. It is estimated they will lose 30,000 if they take Port Arthur, but if they take it, it will be serious for the Russian army, as it will result in releasing the majority of the Japanese southern forces for advance on Liao Yang. The Port Arthur garrison is ready to be annihilated before surrendering.

GENERAL ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR.

Chefoo, Aug. 15.—A general attack commenced on Port Arthur at four o'clock this morning.

Lessons Which Summer-Fallowing Should TeachFarmer's Advocate:

In many portions of the Territories, the present summer has been dry—just ideal weather to give best results from summer-fallowing. Yet, with every climatic advantage favoring the best returns for labor expended, in many instances the poor quality of work done, the time of doing it, and the implements used, frustrated entirely the intended purpose, and for that reason we feel that a few words may be helpful and prevent many from making the same mistake another season.

Every farmer should look carefully over the portion which he has fallowed this year, noticing how it stands for weeds. If the season has been dry in his locality, he should dig down about a foot or so in several places, including the standing grain, in a spot where soil composition and the advantages of moisture are about equal; then compare. If the summer-fallowed land does not contain most moisture, one of the main advantages for fallowing in the West has been missed. By making comparisons at this season, the necessity of working your summer-fallow properly or else doing without it in future will be seen.

Those who have opportunities of travelling through the country and who are interested in its agricultural advancement frequently see the results of misapplied labor, and not least under this heading is that which has been expended on summer-fallow. That the summer-fallow has its place under present conditions in many parts of the West, and, further, that dry seasons are the ones which make the practice of summer-fallowing of advantage, few will dispute. As a means of killing weeds conserving soil moisture it has many advantages and numerous supporters, and during a dry season a properly worked fallow largely answers both, no matter which purpose you have in view while working it.

To kill weeds, the ground should be often stirred so as to never allow them to become strong, either by leaf or root formation. This frequent stirring in dry weather forms a mulch, which prevents the extension of capillary tubes from the moisture beneath to the surface.

It is common in many places where summer-fallowing is practiced to allow the weeds to grow in profusion until nearly matured, and then plow them under. Where the plowing is done thoroughly, and before there is danger of weed seeds being so ripened that they will grow, it kills a great many, but is in no sense a conservator of soil moisture or a saver of fertility. The growing weeds, if fairly thick, require as much moisture and plant food up to the time of plowing as a grain crop.

A Soil Problem In the TerritoriesFarmer's Advocate:

A lack of abundant rainfall in some districts of the Territories this year is a strong reminder that the most immediate problem confronting many farmers, is how to maintain soil moisture. The summer-fallow system has been advocated very strongly by such men as Angus McKay, Superintendent of Indian Head Experimental Farm, and the wisdom of it has been fully borne out by repeated heavy crops at that point and elsewhere. As is well known, the method pursued at the Indian Head Experimental Farm is one of alternate grain-growing and summer-fallowing, or, in other words, one which permits the land being summer-fallowed every other year. By this means the moisture is stored up during the season of cultivation, and retained very largely for the crop the succeeding year. When there is a comparatively rainy season, it frequently happens that the crops on fall and spring plowed land yield heavily, but usually, if not always, the fallow comes out ahead.

The summer-fallow, therefore, brings results, owing to the fact that it holds the moisture in the soil, and at the present time it, therefore, must be regarded as a necessary method of procedure in districts, where dry weather is to be feared. Nevertheless, the fact should not be forgotten that the results of repeated summer-fallowing can have, in time, but one conclusion, and that, the ultimate destruction or consumption of the fertility in the soil, and consequent light crops. There is, of course, an almost inexhaustible supply of plant-food in the soil at the present time, and it may take years even of summer-fallowing to deplete it to any extent, but as surely as man goes heavily in debt and pay-day comes some time, so surely will the time come when even summer-fallowing will leave the tiller of the soil without as heavy a crop as he expected.

During a visit of a member of the "Farmer's Advocate" to the Experimental Farm at Indian Head, a short time ago, this question was pretty thoroughly gone into by Prof. Shutt, Dominion Chemist, who was then passing through on his way from B. C. to Otrawa. He believes that the most important problem confronting Western agriculture to-day is how to restore or maintain fertility and at the same time retain the moisture. He does not believe that we have yet any substitute for the summer-fallow, but realizes that the time has come when the matter must be dealt with seriously. It is the part of experimental farms and scientists to be working out those problems in advance of the people.

Upon being questioned as to what possible channel he thought held out any hope of providing a solution, to the problem, Prof. Shutt said he believed it might come through the growing of some leguminous crop. Clover, he believed, would be out of the question, and peas were, perhaps, the only thing. The price of seed, however, stood in the way of using them largely, as it would cost in the least $2.00 per acre to supply sufficient seed to give a heavy crop for plowing down. There is no doubt that peas is a great restorer of nitrogen as well as humus, both of which are rapidly lost or worn out through summer-fallowing. The question is a large one, however, and one deserving the most serious consideration of everyone interested in advanced agriculture in the West.

PARLIAMENT

Ottawa Correspondence:

Still Talking

Although Saturday was the day fixed for prorogation there does not seem to be any disposition on the part of the members of the opposition to hasten business. Yesterday's proceedings included several long discussions on questions which might have been disposed of with very little ceremony, considering the unanimity of opinion regarding them; but the Old Guard, comprising Messrs. Sproule, Clancy, Taylor, Gourley, Lennox and others could not refrain from taking a last opportunity to make speeches.

Compliments to Their Excellencies

A complimentary address to Lord Minto on his retirement from the Governor Generalship, was moved by the Premier, seconded by the leader of the opposition, and carried by a standing vote.

After the Tobacco Trust

The regulations proposed to be adopted by the Department of Inland Revenue to check the operations of the United States Tobacco trust in Canada were strongly supported by Messrs. Taylor, Sproule and Gourley of the opposition, who still spent a good deal of time in explaining to the House and country that although they approved of this feature of the government's policy, they did not any the more approve of the government. The resolution was carried.

The resolution providing for a bonus of one and a half cents per gallon for crude petroleum produced from wells in Canada was considered in committee of the whole. Messrs. Clancy and Armstrong, in speeches aggregating between two and three hours, objected to the reduction in the duty on refined and crude oil. These gentlemen represent the oil producing area of Canada and it is interesting to know that their view of the case is that the people of all the rest of Canada should pay a double tax for the support of that industry.

The Davis Contract

On the Railways and Canals estimates, Lennox delivered a two hours' speech on the Davis contract for the lighting and working of the Cornwall canal. This contract is the direct occasion of the retirement of the Auditor General. The contract was made in February of '96 and signed by the late government in June of the same year, a few days after their defeat at the polls. The present government had given effect to the terms of the contract, but in doing so had exercised certain discretion with the result of considerably reducing the charges made by Davis for the work done. These charges the Auditor-General still considered excessive and in the discussion following his stand on the subject, declared his intention of resigning. Naturally there has been considerable effort to make political capital against the government out of this action of the Auditor-General, and Mr. Lennox' speech was in that line, the general contention being that the bargain was an imprudent one, the attempt being made to throw the blame for its imprudence upon the present government.

The Minister of Justice showed conclusively to the House for the second time that the bargain had been made by the previous government, that the present government had no choice in the matter except to either carry out the terms of the original bargain or expropriate the work, which proceeding was provided for in the original bargain. Under threat of expropriation, they had secured more favorable terms from Mr. Davis than those contained in the original contract. He made a comparison between the cost of the same service on the Soulages canal, operated by the government as a public work, and the cost on the Cornwall canal, operated by Davis under contract with the government. On the Soulages canal, the cost per horse power was $70 per year, and on the Cornwall canal under the contract complained of it was $65 per year. Under the circumstances the government did not feel justified in exercising the right of expropriation contained in the contract.

Haggart, Ex-Minister of Railways, who had made the first contract for the late government, stated the case exactly as it had been stated by the Minister of Justice, and claimed that under the conditions existing at the time the contract was made he considered it to be a provident contract and in the best interests of the country. He said that he could never understand the attitude of the Auditor-General on the matter. His speech was the pricking of the political bubble, in as much as he assumed full responsibility for himself and the government of which he was a member at the time the contract was made. Although this necessarily prevented the use of the contract as a legitimate political weapon on the part of the opposition against the government it did not prevent Dr. Sproule from once more expressing his views as to the iniquity of the government and the desirability from the standpoint of public interest of its being displaced by himself and friends, including the Ex-Minister of Railways.

Compensation for Slaughtered Animals

An important piece of legislation to the agricultural interests was introduced in the form of a resolution by which it is intended to amend the Animal Contagious Disease Act of 1893. The amendments include the addition of a very serious disease amongst horses which is prevalent in parts of the Northwest to the list of diseases dealt with by that act. The most important provision, however, is that in case of animals slaughtered because of contagious disease, two-thirds of the value of the animal will be paid, and where the animal has been slaughtered for insufficient reason the full value shall be paid. The limit of value is fixed as follows: in the case of grade animals not more than $150 for each horse, $80 for each head of cattle, or $15 for each pig or sheep; and in the case of pure-bred animals not more than $300 for each horse, $150 for each head of cattle or $50 for each pig or sheep. The purpose of these provisions is to enable the department to thoroughly stamp out glanders and other serious diseases existing amongst horses, especially in Western Canada. It is found in practice that when animals are slaughtered without compensation, there is such a tendency on the part of owners to conceal the facts of the case that it is impossible to thoroughly stamp out the disease, and it is believed to be better to spend a considerable amount of public money in payment of compensation than to allow the disease to run or to continue to fight against it under disadvantages which have hitherto existed.

Extension of Railway Subsidies

A resolution continuing a number of subsidies which have been granted for the construction of new railways in Canada has been placed on the order paper. No new railway subsidies are being proposed.

August 5th, 1904.

NAMAQ

Mr. Ed. Hogan of Namao entertained a number of his friends at his home on Friday evening last. Quite a large number were present and the evening was spent with dancing and music. Altogether a most enjoyable time was spent.

LAID AT REST

(Correspondence)

It is with sorrow we announce the sad and unexpected death of John Murray of St. Albert district. Mr. Murray left his home in Edinburgh Scotland, a long with his family a little over a year ago. Since then they have been farming six miles northwest of St. Albert. On Saturday the day preceding his death he seemed to be in his usual good health. On Sunday morning about six o'clock Mrs. Murray was aroused by hearing the deceased making a sort of choking sound. She immediately awakened the family but without even being able to recognize any of them he quietly passed away. Dr. Thorne of St. Albert was sent for and pronounced death from heart failure.

The deceased was for a number of years an officer in the Royal Artillery Army, having spent over thirty years in his country's service. In that period he was twice called to India. Although only being a short time with us he made many friends. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter, besides all who knew him. His remains were interred in the Sturgeon cemetery where they now wait the Master's final call. Although the day of his funeral was very disagreeable with heavy showers, many friends followed paying their last tribute of respect to the departed.

The family has the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement.

A short reference was made to the sudden death of Mr. Murray in the Bulletin of a few days ago.

Its Attitude

The Stratheona Plaindealer in its last issue has the following article: "Some responsibility has, therefore, been removed from the shoulders of the Plaindealer management in their efforts to deal with public questions by the establishment of the Chronicle, Conservative, in this town. We never did straddle the fence politically or avoid the issues of the day but have sometimes, perhaps, expressed ourselves more mildly than we would have done had the opponents to our views been represented in the journalistic field. We are not bound to any party, though, in the light of eight years under the present editorship it is not necessary for the Plaindealer to here assert that we have favored in the main the present administration. Governments outlive their usefulness and doubtless that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier will as did that of Sir John Macdonald and his successors in office but we are of opinion that that evil day has not yet arrived. The continued prosperity of Canada and wonderful development of her trade and commerce still advancing by leaps and bounds notwithstanding the commercial and industrial depression of the United States at this time, demonstrate that the fiscal policy of the administration is suited to the times in which we live. The aggressiveness and marked success of the Department of Interior in securing immigration into Western Canada, is such an agreeable contrast to the record of the previous administrations that we cannot help commending it. The transportation policy while not exactly to our liking is so much superior to the alternative proposals of the opposition that we are prepared to support it in preference.

THE EXHIBITION'S

FINANCES

Interesting Financial Statement Submitted to the Directors. Increased Expenditure

A meeting of the directors of the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition association was held in the secretary's office Friday. Those present were President Donald Ross, Vice-President T. Bellamy, Secretary F. F. Tims, Jos. H. Morris, J. H. Gariepy, Thos. Daly and W. S. Robertson. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The financial statement for the recent fair was read. It showed a balance on the credit side of $174.45. Some small accounts in favor of the association are still unsettled. This surplus does not include the expenditure on permanent improvements, which this year amounted to $4,429.66 before the fair took place.

The president and secretary were appointed a committee to interview the city council re the purchase of the house formerly occupied by the power house engineer.

It was decided to alter the entrance fee of $4.50 imposed on herds shown at the recent exhibition and make it $2. Those who have paid $4.50 will be refunded $2.50.

President Ross, Vice-president Bellamy, W. S. Robertson and J. H. Morris were appointed a committee to wait on the council regarding the taxes on the Exhibition grounds.

The Trades and Labor Council will be given the use of the exhibition grounds for Labor Day for 25 per cent. of the gate receipts and fifty per cent. of the booth privileges, or for $100. An account of R. Hall's was ordered paid.

We give below a synopsis of the receipts and expenditures for the recent exhibition. The receipts and expenditures for 1903 are given by way of comparison.

were taken by Rev. Mr. Flemming of Strathcona. Rev. Mr. McQueen, who has been enjoying a holiday trip to Scotland, is expected to return to Edmonton about the last of this month.

At the evening service in the Baptist church the pastor, Rev. A. M. McDonald, preached from the subject, "The relation of this life to that which is to come."

The services in the Methodist church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. H. Huestis. The new mission church on Kinistino avenue is expected to be opened for service on Sunday next.

Drowned While Bathing

Free Lance:

On Sunday afternoon the residents of Innisfail were startled to hear that young Tom Law, who had been working recently in the brick yard, had been drowned in a slough a couple of miles east of town.

It appears that the boy and a couple of comrades were in bathing and young Law, supporting himself on a raft, was pushing out to the centre of the slough. His comrades were invited to "come on," but declined and turned towards the shore. They were suddenly alarmed by a cry for help from Law, and turning, saw that he had gone down, and before they would be able to reach him his struggles would have ceased. The other boys gave the alarm and many willing helpers were soon on the scene. The body was recovered about an hour afterwards, but life was extinct.

Dr. George, coroner, held an inquest in Dobson Bros. undertaking rooms, the following composing the jury: Messrs. E. T. Stiles, foreman; G. S. Kirkham, H. N. Maynard, A. Wanless, A. Kremer, J. Kerr. Several witnesses were examined and a post mortem made by Dr. Membership. The verdict was to the effect that deceased came to his death by accidental drowning, no blame attaching to any one.

The deceased was brought to Alberta from Stratford, Ont., by Mr. W. H. Howard some 11 years ago. Of late he had been working on farms in the neighborhood. The only known relative living is a sister in Ontario, address unknown.

The remains were interred in the Innisfail cemetery on Monday afternoon, Rev. W. F. Allan, conducting services at the grave.

Victoria Fire

Victoria, August 9.—To its continually rekindled, non-progressive, large property owners, notably the Work and Finlayson heirs, Victoria owes its salvation, if not from complete extinction by fire, assuredly from the destruction of its entire northward portion of its most populous residence district. The two estates named are relics of the Hudson Bay government, and have during Victoria's growth declined to break the acreage of the two plots of eighty-four acres, practically in the residence heart of the city, thereby escaping higher taxation, and have kept these blocks cleared and leveled but otherwise unimproved. This afternoon the block of the advance of a wall of fire running before a forty-eight mile southwest wind, which the firemen, handicapped by inadequate hydrant pressure and shortage of hose, confessed was far beyond human control. The eye-sore city fields, which a happy fate sent the fierce wave to them instead of any other portion of the city, saved Victoria.

The fire started in the moulding room of the Albion iron works, Lower Discovery street, and gained ten minutes start in the immense wooden structures, through the company's workmen endeavoring to suppress it themselves, forgetful of an alarm. The result was the immediate doom of the caving boiler and machinery departments of the Albion, together with several thousand valuable patterns and pattern models. It then fearfully leaped two hundred yards to a row of frame residences on Pembroke street. Carefully dodging property aggregating half a million in value and including the big Victoria Phoenix brewery, the Sayward, the Taylor and the Shawinigan Lake lumber mills and yards, the Victoria gas works, electric company's gas barns and the Pioneer spice works, from Pembroke street the fire leaped Douglas street, leaving but the corner buildings on that thoroughfare, from Pembroke to Princess avenue and swept the latter virtually from end to end. The thickly settled block of Princess and Queen's avenues was reduced to ashes and ghostly chimneys for its entire length, but two buildings in all remaining, the Leland hotel and Board's shoe store. Then came the Work & Finlayson field and the city's salvation.

Real Warm Time

The Herald gives the following account of the reception tendered the Calgary baseball team on their return home:

A smoker was given Friday night in honor of the return of the baseball champions. It was an animated affair as a result of the hilarity developed by the enthusiasts spent some time at the city jail early this morning. One of them was charged with an aggravated assault on a mounted policeman. Others were also charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Those arrested were William Macdonald, bartender at the Commercial hotel; T. Fisher, C. P. R. brakeman; F. Ferguson, C.P.R. brakeman; Douglas Reid, clerk at Bank of Montreal; Alban Mackenzie, clerk at Bank of Commerce; Thos. Newburn, clerk in Union Bank.

A good deal of feeling has been aroused among the friends of the young men arrested. The assertion is made with some justice and much persistence in the interest of some of the accused, that they were innocent of any connection with the disturbance. The friend of three of the young men, whose homes were visited by the officers, are very indignant and insist that an investigation be held in order to get at the truth.

The smoker was held at the Alexander hall. The place was crowded. The band rendered several selections and the different speakers were eulogizing the ball team. Chief Smart, of the fire department, had just ceased speaking and Magistrate Van Wart was preparing to address the audience when the row started.

Much beer had been consumed. Over in one corner a crowd of boon companions were having a rough time histerous but not quarrelsome. Some of them were said to be pretty full. It was just 11.30 when the throwing of beer commenced in the corner where the confusion had been most noticeable for some time. Some one finally threw a beer glass. In a minute several men were mixed up in a rough and tumble fight.

Mr. Van Wart said he sprang from the stage and attempted to separate the disturbers. In a moment he felt himself seized by half a dozen hands and forced back. He was told that it was no fight of his. Mr. Van Wart called upon Mounted Policeman Edward Gully to assist in ejecting the men. Bandsman White, an ex-mounted policeman, also aided. The fighters were forced out of the room and down stairs.

Out on the street the struggle continued. Gully says he was assaulted repeatedly by "Billy" Macdonald, and another man whom he does not know. He was left unconscious on the ground after a fierce fight. He does not know what he was hit with, but whatever it was, it was a success. His head was cut in many places. He thinks he was also kicked.

Mr. Van Wart took the man to the general hospital. There was no room for him and he was taken to the barracks. The surgeons found several gashes in his head. When he appeared in the police court today, he was swathed in bandages with little but his eyes showing.

Macdonald is charged with assaulting the officer and will be tried Tuesday. The other men are charged with being drunk and disorderly. They will appear this afternoon.

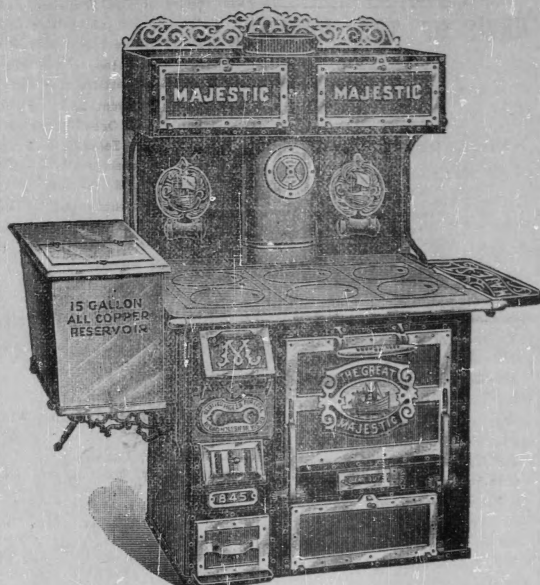

Officers Mills and Hardie were called to the hall. They said they were told by different men, among them Aldermen Clarke and Magistrate Van Wart to seek out and arrest the other men. They found Fisher and Ferguson at the Royal hotel. Macdonald they arrested at the Commercial.

They went to Newburn's house after midnight but he had not returned. When he did come in his father sent him at once to the police station. Mackenzie and Reid were roused out of their beds at Mrs. Moore's boarding house about 2.30 and taken to the station, their valuables taken and they were locked up.

Macdonald was released by Magistrate Van Wart on $200 bail being deposited for him. He also released Fisher and Ferguson some time before 3.30.

The other boys were released this morning by Magistrate Cameron, after R. B. Bennett had been retained to secure their liberty. All the prisoners were placed in the cell room.

Friends of the men who were taken at their homes insist that the officers violated the law and precedent established, by arresting the men without warrants. It is customary to summons persons under these circumstances. The officers excuse their acts on the ground that they were told by responsible persons to get these boys at once. Several people declare the mounted policeman was drunk. Several others in the hall were also drunk. He has been in the force a year. He is an Englishman.

—Henry Meyer of the Stony Plain settlement commenced his wheat harvesting on Friday last.

—A large number of Edmonton people left Saturday and today to rusticate at Cooking Lake.

—The Red Deer Agricultural Exhibition Association will hold their fall fair on October 4th and 5th.

—Two hundred and seventy-seven homestead entries were made in the Battleford district during the month of July.

—Albert Tait expects to leave on Tuesday with the first raft of timber for the Canadian Northern railway bridge at Battleford.

—The annual Sunday School picnic of the Edmonton Presbyterian church will be held in the Exhibition grounds park on Civic Holiday, August 23rd.

—The congregation of the Red Deer Baptist Church have decided to build and the plans are now being drawn up for a structure costing in the neighborhood of $1,500.

—The hearing of the Scott-Gilbert case in Strathcona comes up tomorrow. It was postponed from Thursday last owing to the inability of the defendants' counsel to be present.

—A sample of wheat grown on the farm of Ludwig Vadel, Stony Plain, is in the window of the Bulletin office. It is of a splendid sample and ready for cutting.

—J. Rea has the contract for the erection of a residence for Inspector Strickland, on the N.W.M.P. grounds, just east of the barracks. Work began on the new building Saturday.

—Crop reports from all parts of the district state that the grain is in better condition than it has been for years. The harvest is well advanced. Barley cutting in nearly all districts is general. Some wheat is being cut.

—An exceedingly large head of lettuce, grown in the garden of Mr. Phil Umbach, Edmonton, has been left at the Bulletin office. Its great size and luxuriance is typical of the growth of garden vegetables in the Edmonton district.

—The last gun club shoot of the season will take place in the usual place this evening. The bus will leave the Windsor hotel at 6:45 p.m. sharp. The shoot will commence at 7 p.m. Every member is urgently requested to attend.

—The bright hot weather of the past few days means golden shekels for the farmers, and incidentally for all trades and professional men. The crops have attained a sufficient growth and now all that is wanted is plenty of bright hot weather to ripen them up.

—For the past few weeks drowning reports have been circulated with due regularity in the city. Last night it was said that a man and his wife and child had been drowned in the river three miles south of town. Investigation this morning proved the report to be absolutely without foundation.

—Saskatchewan Herald: C. W. Mathers and A. B. Cushing, of Edmonton, are visiting Battleford and interviewing points. Mr. Cushing represents Cushing Bros. & Co., window and door manufacturers, of Calgary and Edmonton. Mr. Mathers, the well known photographer of Edmonton, is making a collection of views of buildings and objects of interest in these parts.

—Farmers' Advocate. In white oats at the Winnipeg Dominion exhibition there was strong competition, although the first-prize winner was an outstanding sample. This was shown by Thos. Daly of Clover Bar, in the Edmonton district, and it speaks well of the class of oats that can be grown in that vicinity. It would almost be expected that people in such an oat-producing country would take more advantage of the advertising opportunities offered through an exhibit here. The second and third class prize oats were also very good quality but considerably lighter per measured bushel.
